OHIO ELECTION.

The State Republican by at Least 20,000 Majority.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, October 10, 1872.

Sixty-four counties give a Republican majority of 22,956. The remaining counties gave, last year, 5,050 Democratic majority, which, deducted from above, would leave 17,900 as the Republican majority in the State. But the probabilities are that the Republicans have gained more in unreported counties than the Democrats have. Hence the Executive Committee think the majority may run up to within a few hundred of twenty thousand.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

XENIA, OHIO, October 10, 1872.

The Republicans had a large jollification meeting here this evening. A torchlight procession half a mile long paraded the principal streets. Gunckle, Congressman elect from this district, addressed the crowd.

The Pennsylvania Election.

What Leading Newspapers Think of the Result.

[From the Louisville Commercial.]

We congratulate the Union men of our country that the loyal people of Pennsylvania are awake to the peril that exists in such sentiments as Mr. Greeley put forth at Pittsburgh, and the danger that would environ us by putting power in the hands of those holding or sympathising with them—we are yielding to them temporarily, whether from motives of policy or hate. The majorities given at this time in Pennsylvania will be increased in November—and we feel assured that the Union people are everywhere aroused and will cast their votes for Union men and not for practical secessionists or their sympathisers.

[From the Philadelphia Inquirer, Independent.]

The business interests of the country incline to the belief that it is wise to "Let well enough alone." It might be that the result would be satisfactory if a change in national affairs had been determined upon. Still there was an uncertainty, and if we can trust to the adage, "As goes Pennsylvania so goes the Union," the contest for November is already settled, and the electoral majority of General Grant will be much heavier than that rolled up for Hartranft yesterday. It is well that it should be so. The country has already suffered much from the agitation and excitement of the campaign. Business has been partially paralyzed. Industry has been compelled to wait the doubtful experiment, scarcely daring to engage in extensive enterprise, and uncertain how much might be risked. After to-day a calm must follow. It is a habit of the American people to look ahead and to prepare for that which is inevitable before it has actually happened. For the sake of our prosperity and material interests it is, therefore, a subject of congratulation that the question has been settled so soon.

[From the New York Sun.]

Such open, undisguised, shameless villainy was never before practiced in any American election. We will not here inquire how such unprecedented fraud will be received by the people. If they consent to it or bear it with indifference, their demoralization and corruption have gone further and reached a more dangerous stage than has been imagined. If these events do not provoke a general feeling of indignation throughout the country—if it be the fate of the republic to have Grant continued in power, and Grantism perpetuated over us—it is certainly appropriate that such a result should be achieved by such means as were employed in Philadelphia yesterday.

[From the Cincinnati Commercial.]

Taking yesterday's elections altogether, the conclusion is forced that the luck of General Grant, in politics as in war, is likely to be confirmed by his re-election to the Presidency. The Liberal and Democratic organization is not so compact that it can withstand the shock of repeated defeats.

[From the Cincinnati Enquirer, Democrat.]

The elections in Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania, yesterday, were not, we regret to say, favorable to the cause of Liberalism. The returns which we have from Pennsylvania indicate the election of Hartranft by from ten to fifteen thousand. The money of the corrupt Simon Cameron and the Grant rings seems to have done the work. Ohio has failed to fulfill her promise, and it looks very much as though the Republican majority of last year would stand. We have gained no Congressmen save in the First and Second districts, though we hope for the election of Hurd in the Sixth and Sloane in the Tenth. The Republican majority may not exceed ten thousand.

[From the Toledo, O., Commercial.]

Thus is the scandalous coalition of "sorehead" Republicans and Democratic leaders disposed of completely and permanently. The brand of popular condemnation has been placed on the intrigue, and from this time out the authors of the scheme will receive the contempt of all and the bitter curses of the honest masses deluded into its support. It will take them some time to settle between them the cause and responsibility of the failure.

[From the Cincinnati Gazette.]

"It is a contest between the Democratic party united and the Republican party at loggerheads," was the confident boast of a Greeley newspaper no longer ago than Monday. "Very well," said the Republicans, "we will accept the issue on your own ground." And into the contest they went, trusting to the justice of their cause, confident in the judgment and sober sense of the people. How amply their confidence has been justified the result shows. The great party that saved the Union is still the party to which the Keystone State looks for whatever of peace is still to be secured, for whatever of reform is still to be accomplished, for whatever of progress is still to be achieved.

[From the New York Herald.]

The elections yesterday have resulted in a sweeping Republican victory; a victory that settles the Presidential contest and proves beyond doubt that the attempt to hand over the federal government to a new party composed of Democrats and dissatisfied Republicans has proved a complete failure.

[From the N. Y. Times.]

We rejoice over the brilliant success for many reasons, but for none more than this—that we shall now have an opportunity of talking about measures a little more, and a little less about men. We can now afford to let the Tribune and its companion sheets go on manufacturing slanders, while our attention can be turned to those measures which the public interest demand, and which we are quite sure the next administration will be prepared to carry out. We should take little pleasure in our success if we did not feel confident that Gen. Grant will give us a good administration—that past mistakes will be avoided; that good advice will be heeded; that many reforms will be carried out which could not even be hoped for under a corrupt alliance of Republicans and Democrats.

[From the Chicago Times, Anti-Greeley Democrat.]

The verdicts that are thus rendered by those three great States is positively final as to Mr. Greeley's prospects of election. He is quite as much defeated as if the elections of November were over and the official returns received to prove him in a contemptible minority. His most sanguinary supporters have scarcely claimed that he could be elected unless the coalitionists carried two out of the three principal States that voted on yesterday, and now that they have not carried one, his fate is absolutely settled. It is moreover apparent that the office-seeking partnership of which Mr. Greeley was the figure head was the immediate cause of the complete victory that the radicals have achieved.

With the perfect demonstration that is afforded by the elections of yesterday, of the utter inability of the Cincinnati-Baltimore coalition to defeat the radical ticket, there ought to be no longer delay in repudiating Greeley and Brown as the Democratic candidates. Let the grand old party now reform its lines under the banner of O'Conor and Adams, and if victory does not await it, it will at least not be compelled to contemplate the certainty of defeat and disgrace.

[From the Philadelphia North American.]

Never within our recollection has the political struggle at an October election in this Commonwealth been so excited, severe, protracted or closely contested. Everything that could in any way be used against us has been rendered available by the enemy, and the proclamations of assured triumph in advance for the Greeleyites have been altogether unprecedented. Probably we owe much of our extraordinary vote to this cause; for these persistent boastings alarmed the Republicans everywhere and kept them constantly up to their work. Pennsylvania, from the lake to Delaware, felt in every vein that all eyes rested upon her; that the fate of a great national conflict lay with her decision, and her people, who stood up so nobly for the patriotic cause through the whole of the civil war, were determined not to be found wanting in the crisis.

[From the Baltimore American.]

The 8th of October, 1872, will be written in the history of the nation, "A day of triumph." Since the founding of the Republic no greater civic contest was ever decided. The issue was clear and well defined; on the one side were the loyal millions who believe that the guardianship of the rights and liberties won in war should be intrusted to those who regard them as matters of faith and principle; on the other were the traditional enemies of equal rights, who promised to lay aside their opposition and to accept certain accomplished results which they had not the power to prevent. Under ordinary circumstances the struggle would not have been difficult, but it happened that the Republican party had a few ambitious men who, disappointed in their hopes of preferment, joined hands with their opponents and made common cause against the principles and the policy for which they had so long contended. The result of yesterday shows how futile have been their efforts. In Pennsylvania the victory seems to have been overwhelming. In almost every election district heard from, the Republicans gained largely upon their vote of last year. Philadelphia rebuked the slanderers and revilers in no uncertain terms. Twenty thousand majority for the much-abused Hartranft is the answer she makes to Forney and McClure and Paine. General Hartranft can well afford to smile at the puny efforts of his traducers when the city that knows him and knows them has given him such an indorsement.

[From the Chicago Tribune, Greeley.]

The most noticeable fact of the canvass in these States, as well as in the previous ones in North Carolina, Vermont and Maine, is that the administration party had all the money, all the office holders, all the election machinery, most of the large corporations, and all the adventitious aids which help to decide a doubtful contest. Another instructive fact is, that a percentage of the Democratic vote was cast for the Republican ticket large enough to offset the Liberal Republican vote in each of the three States. Although this change has resulted in the success of the ticket which we deem opposed to the best interests of the country, it points to a speedy dissolution of both the old parties, and this we cannot but regard as a benefit to the whole people. It is impossible that the Republican party should long hold together, without any principles to contend for or promote. The cry that the liberties of the blacks are still in danger, which has, after all, been the most potent weapon of the canvass, being not true in point of fact, will not avail much longer. The Liberal party is the party of the future, notwithstanding the adverse result of yesterday's elections.

[From the Chicago Evening Post.]

The battle is fought, and the victory won. The only thing now left to do is to "go through the motions" in November of ratifying Tuesday's verdict. Gen. Grant is already acknowledged to be the next President of the United States.

The New York Tribune tries its best to get some crumbs of comfort from the result in this State, and with about as much success as attended the efforts of the individual who endeavored to extract blood from a turnip.

[From the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.]

We propose to speak boldly and warmly on this subject. We have maintained the cause of General Hartranft because we knew it was a righteous cause. We have helped to win this great victory for Hartranft and Grant, and we have the right to say now and here: We want no help in November from the men who deserted us in October! We protest in the name of the workingmen of the Republican party, in advance, against any recognition of John W. Forney or Gov. Curtin as advocates of President Grant in the remaining campaign. They would have beaten him on Tuesday if they could. We do not want their services now. And we demand, in the name of the thousands whom we know that we represent, that no Republican Committee—National, State or local—shall permit these men to speak for us anywhere, in pretended support of the National ticket, whose success we insured on Tuesday. We will fight it out on October's lines, under October's banners and with October's leaders. Others may vote for Grant or not as they please. It is only those who voted for him on Tuesday that have any right to enter into his coming triumph.

[From the Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.]

But marked as are the successes in other States, the victory in Pennsylvania, the grand old immovable Keystone of the Union arch, eclipses them all. Never before has so bitter and determined a struggle agitated its every fiber, and never before has a result so decisive been achieved. Upon our soil it was felt by both parties that the hardest work of the campaign had to be done, and upon our decision it was on all sides admitted that the fortunes of the contending forces depended. Starting with this feeling and with this knowledge, neither party has neglected a single chance. Every opening has been availed of, and every expedient resorted to by our foes to shake our strength. Against our candidates a never failing fire of charges has been kept up, and the most insidious pleas brought forward with the object of diverting attention from the real vital issue. Democrats have arrayed themselves in robes as nearly of the Republican pattern as they could secure, and, joining hands with some base deserters from our own lines, have sought to sail into power under our own flag, surmounted by the attractive pennant of "Reform." But this pirate's trick did not blind the vigilant sentinels of the Republican party. The alarm was at once sprung, and through the Republican ranks rang words of warning which fired the general heart and caused men to stand closer and firmer than ever to their old and tried leaders.

[From the Germantown Telegraph.]

The Liberal movement in Pennsylvania cannot be considered a success. The Republicans have carried the State by a majority of not less than twenty thousand, upon a vote very much larger than was ever polled before at any State election. In Ohio they have not done quite so well, though they have carried the State by a safe majority, and it is uncertain whether they have not even carried Indiana. The most sanguine hardly looked for so great a triumph, and it is not likely that we shall hear much more about reform in this State for some time to come. We have not often seen a worse defeated party.

[From the Chicago Evening Journal.]

In Pennsylvania the excitement was the most intense. Charges of corruption had been made, which, if true, would have insured Hartranft's defeat by a tremendous majority. There is no State in the Union where the standard of honesty is higher than in the noble Commonwealth founded by Wm. Penn. It must be admitted that the returns fully vindicate Gen. Hartranft and stamp the accusations against him as an infamous slander.

It is now certain that the Republican party is stronger than it ever was before. The attempted coalition has signally failed. Every effort made to break up the grand old party of freedom and progress has strengthened it. At no point is it vulnerable. It will keep on making gains so long as it remains true to its principles.

We have said that the campaign is virtually over, and so it is, provided only our friends go to the polls in November as generally as they did in October. Our sole danger is overconfidence. Strength is sometimes weakness. There should be no flagging in zeal. We ought to roll up a majority so immense as to make it plain to even the dullest understanding that a political combination having no other bond of union than a common greed for spoils is a foredoomed failure. The lesson will be impressive in proportion as the Republican majority is large.

EUROPE.

BY THE ATLANTIC CABLE.

London Press on the October Elections.

LONDON, October 10.—The city journals foresee in Tuesday's elections the re-election of President Grant in November. They comment at considerable length on the elections and their effect on the Presidential contest. The Times says: "We cannot regret the result." The News says: "Greeley's cause is now a forlorn hope, and will certainly fail." The Post characterizes the Liberal Republican movement as a failure beyond redemption.

Extreme Views on the Alabama Claims Question.

LONDON, October 10.—Bentinck, M. P., in a public speech last night argued that the settlement of the Alabama question was a dishonor to England. It was absurd that a rule should be made and held to bind England to responsibility for an act committed long before the rule had any existence. England deserved the scorn of the whole world, and would cease to hold her position among the nations.

A meeting of Conservatives at Castle Hedingham was addressed by Henry Jervis, M. P., and others, who severely censured the government for its conduct of the negotiations with the United States.

The telegraphic tolls of dispatches forwarded and received at the expense of the British government on the subject of indirect claims amount to four hundred thousand dollars.

Cuban Affairs Discussed in the Spanish Cortes.

MADRID, October 10.—In a speech to-day Senor Diaz made a severe attack on the volunteers in Cuba for their insubordination and ferocity. The Minister of Colonies defended and praised the volunteers. He declared that their services in maintaining order in Havana and other towns had been invaluable. They had also, by performing garrison duty in sea ports, freed large bodies of troops to operate in the interior, and had thereby materially assisted in lessening the expenses of the war.

The abolition society of Madrid sent a petition to the Senate, praying for the manumission of slaves in Cuba and Porto Rico. The Senate has referred the petitions to the King's minister.

The Minister of State has promised an investigation into the charges that Spanish soldiers in Cuba had attacked foreigners, but declares his belief that the soldiers only did their duty.

Important Meeting of the French Assembly Commission.

PARIS, October 10.—The permanent commission of the Assembly to-day held an important meeting, at which Thiers was present. Matters were discussed on which there was considerable conflict of opinion. Gambetta's political tour and speeches in the provinces, and the assaults recently made on pilgrims who continue to flock to Lourdes to witness the miracle of the Virgin, were regarded by some of the members as likely to lead to trouble. Thiers expressed indignation at the outrageous treatment of the pilgrims, which he regarded as an attack on the Catholic religion and national form of worship. He warmly condemned the course of Gambetta, who, he said, was trying to divide the nation and render the position of the government abroad more difficult. Thiers, who seemed to be inclined to break with the "left," still clung to the Republic, and his positive declarations in favor of that form of government were received with laughter by the Monarchists of the commission. The report that Prince Napoleon intended to return to France and possibly resume his residence in Paris was also considered. The President informed the commission that he had expressed his disapproval of such a step, and had taken means to prevent the Prince from carrying his intention into effect.

Rumor of Bonapartist Coup D'Etat.

PARIS, October 10, Midnight.—The Soir newspaper publishes a sensational report this afternoon to the effect that a Bonapartist movement was on foot, and a coup d'etat would be attempted in Paris to-night, but up to this hour nothing has happened and the city is perfectly quiet. It is reported that Prince de Joinville and D'Aumale will resign their seats in the Assembly.

Miscellaneous Dispatches.

LONDON, October 10.—Minister Schenck is about to visit Italy, accompanied by his daughter. He will be away two months. Benjamin Moran, Secretary of the Legation, will act as Charge d'Affairs in his absence.

Shooting Affray at Plymouth, Indiana.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

PLYMOUTH, IND., October 10, 1872.

This evening about six o'clock one Taggart shot and mortally wounded his son-in-law, a young man named Osborn. They had not been on terms of intimacy for some time. Osborn had come for his wife, who was at her mother's, and while there Taggart came in, and on seeing Osborn said, "What are you doing here? If you don't get of here I'll shoot you;" whereupon he drew a revolver and fired, the ball entering Osborn's breast about three inches below the right nipple, ranging upward through the right lung. Outsiders rushing to the scene, carried Osborn to his boarding-house, and physicians were summoned, but on probing the wound the ball could not be found. Taggart is still at large, but the authorities are after him.

Serious Fire at Jeromeville, Ohio.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

WOOSTER, O., October 10, 1872.

A very destructive fire took place in Jeromeville, Ashland county, last night. The dry goods store of Peter Goodman was entirely consumed, also the dwelling house of Mrs. Elizabeth Basford in the same block. Several other buildings were on fire, but were saved by the energetic work of the citizens. Goodman's loss is estimated at $2,000; stock insured in the Phoenix; amount unknown. The building is insured in the Home, of Columbus, for $800. The fire broke out in the back part of Goodman's building, and its origin is a mystery.

Dr. Boalman, who killed Col. Tom Collier at Hopefield, Ark., opposite Memphis, Tenn., last winter, was run over by a railroad train yesterday at Hopefield, and had his right arm cut off and sustained other injuries, which will probably prove fatal.

SECOND EDITION.

WASHINGTON.

THE INDIANA ELECTION

The State Certain to Go for Grant in November.

GREELEY JOINS IN THE CRY OF FRAUD.

Defeat Attributed to Poverty.

Virginia Probably Republican in November.

Sumner's Health Precarious.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 10, 1872.

The News from Indiana.

The favorable Democratic returns of to-day from Indiana are not regarded here by Liberals as affording any real hope of success in November. Indiana Democrats are very jubilant over the news that Hendricks is elected. They profess no hope of carrying the State for Greeley, and say freely the Democrats will not rally to the support of Greeley with much enthusiasm, and that they expect a very large falling off in the November vote.

Deserting the Sinking Ship.

Good evidence of the feeling against Greeley in Democratic circles here is shown by the fact that the author and compiler of the Liberal campaign document, known as the fraud pamphlet, as soon as the result in Ohio and Pennsylvania was known, began to denounce Mr. Greeley and his friends as the greatest fraud ever palmed off in any party.

Greeley Reading the News.

A gentleman who rode with Mr. Greeley in the cars from New York to Baltimore last night, says the old gentleman appeared considerably depressed over the election news, and said he had no doubt great frauds had been perpetrated in Pennsylvania. Upon his arrival in Philadelphia he purchased a copy of the Age, and spent a long time studying over its returns and comments.

A Loud Wail.

The Patriot this morning, in the course of a leading editorial, says: "It is useless to disguise that the State elections on Tuesday have not fulfilled our expectations. Results have disappointed us in many ways, but chiefly in demonstrating that the Liberals have not shown the strength they claimed with so much confidence. Now that this canvas is ended, it may be frankly stated that the means of conducting ordinary operations were wholly inadequate from the outset, and that complaint in this respect was general and well founded, as we have occasion to know. It would serve no good purpose to exhibit the limited resources with which the campaign had to be conducted, and the utter inability to respond to the popular demand for the essential requisites of a great political contest. While radicals were distributing documents by millions and furnishing the sinews of war wherever they were needed, our committees were crippled for want of absolute necessaries, and compelled to refuse most legitimate aid.

Virginia Likely to Go for Grant.

A number of Virginia politicians of both parties have been in the city to-day, and agree that the sweeping victory in Pennsylvania and Ohio will have a decided effect upon Virginia Democrats, and make it quite within the range of probabilities that the State will go for Grant in November.

Attempted Assassination in Alabama.

J. S. Perrin, Assistant Assessor in Alabama, reports to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue that while with an escort of United States troops in Wilcox and Monroe counties, in that State, looking after illicit distilleries, he was shot at by men concealed behind clumps of trees. Efforts are now being made to capture the would-be assassins.

Sumner's Health.

A gentleman who arrived here to-day from Paris met Senator Sumner in that city on the 25th of last month. He reports the general health of the Senator as worse rather than better, and the symptoms of his old attacks more alarming than when he sailed. He was about to have a consultation with eminent physicians.

The Extension of Capitol Grounds.

The Board of Appraisers of Property condemned for the east extension of the Capitol grounds have, at the request of the Secretary of the Interior, reviewed their work to ascertain whether they could not justly bring the appraisements within the appropriations made by Congress. The Board decide, however, that the first figures were fair. So the grounds cannot be extended until further legislation is obtained.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 10, 1872.

MEXICAN DEPREDATIONS ON THE BORDER.

Col. Robb, of Georgia, and Mr. Savage, of California, two of the Commissioners appointed by the President to take testimony relative to depredations on the Rio Grande, having returned to Washington, to-day called upon President Grant and had a long interview with him. The President was much interested in the narrative of these gentlemen, who will prepare a formal report for transmission to Congress. The incursions by armed Mexican bands into Texas are numerous and have continued since 1859. They have since that time driven cattle estimated to be worth several millions of dollars from Texas across the river into Mexico, where their plunder is sold to soldiers and citizens. General Cortina, who is not at present in active service (military), but on waiting orders, is represented to be one of the most active instigators of the incursions, by which he largely profits. The Texans, while endeavoring to drive away thieves, are sometimes killed by superior numbers of Mexican bands, while occasionally the latter suffer in like manner. Owing to these frequent incursions, the border continues in a state of excitement. There is only one company of cavalry on the frontier, which is of little use, considering the distance which requires to be guarded, it being eight hundred miles from the mouth of the Rio Grande to the extreme American settlements. Infantry is located at long intervals. The distance is nearly three hundred miles from Fort Brown to Ringgold Barracks, with only one camp intervening. Some of the sufferers by Mexican raids traveled two hundred miles to give their testimony, and expressed their gratification that preliminary measures had been taken not only to protect but to indemnify them for losses. General McCook, commanding on the Rio Grande, corroborates the statements of witnesses as to the boldness with which raids are made, and testified as to his inability, with an insufficient force, to give the required protection. There is reason to believe the President, in submitting the report of the Commissioners to Congress, will accompany it with a strong recommendation that prompt measures be taken to protect our citizens on the border in their lives and property.

MR. SEWARD'S DEATH.

The announcement of the death of Mr. Seward is received with great regret in all quarters. The State Department building will, as a mark of respect to his memory, be draped with mourning.

THE MIXED CLAIMS COMMISSION.

The recent decision rendered by the mixed commission on British and American claims on demurrers of the United States, as to non-appeal in ship cases against the United States, is as follows: "As there may be circumstances which may make it the duty of the commissioners to consider some of the cases in which there has been no appeal, demurrers in these cases will be disallowed, but the commissioners wish it to be known that they will not allow any such claim in which the fact of not appealing is not satisfactorily accounted for, and it is desired that Her Britannic Majesty's agent or counsel should state in writing as soon as may be in each case the reasons relied upon, if any, to excuse failure to appeal."

Extensive Fire at Sing Sing, New York—Loss $250,000.

POUGHKEEPSIE, October 10.—The fire at Sing Sing last night was very destructive. Twenty-seven places of business were burned out. The fire originated in Francis Larken's row, on Main street, which was destroyed; loss over $20,000. Patterson's brick row was also destroyed; loss $20,000; insured for $9,000. Three stores belonging to a hardware firm, and building; loss $30,000 on hardware and $12,000 on building; insured for $25,500. C. Yeoman's coal yard; loss $2,000. Democratic Register office; loss $5,000; insured for $1,000. Kipp & Son's furniture; loss $9,000; insured for $3,000. There were many losses by persons doing business in a small way. The total loss cannot be less than $250,000. It was an incendiary fire.

Severe Earthquake Shock.

SIOUX CITY, IOWA, October 10.—At 9:50 yesterday this city and vicinity was visited with quite a severe shock of earthquake. The people rushed out of doors and considerable excitement prevailed for a brief period. The shock only lasted about a minute and a half, but during that time crockery and bottles were thrown down and buildings pretty well shaken up. No serious damage to property is reported. At Fort Randall, Dakota, the shock was severe. Great excitement prevailed. At Yankton the shock was faint, but distinctly felt, doing no damage. Reports from other portions of Dakota show that none of the principal points escaped entirely.

UNION CITY, IND., October 10, 1872.

THE OIL REGIONS.

SUSPENSION OF PRODUCTION MOVEMENT.

Mass Meeting of Producers and Laboring Men.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

ST. PETERSBURG, PA., October 10, 1872.

A most successful mass meeting of at least one thousand people, consisting of producers and contractors, with a full proportion of laboring men, was held here to-day. A stirring address by Mr. Shannon was received with great applause. It combined the interest of both producers and laboring men. At least one half of the meeting were laboring men, who signed the constitution and by-laws of the Producers' Association, showing that they are as a unit heart and hand with the producers.

The following dispatch was received with applause:

FRANKLIN, October 9.—To O. E. Shannon, St. Petersburg: While I deeply regret not being with you this night, I send my greetings to you all. Organize and keep united. Union is the power which will bring a fair price for oil to the producers and good wages to the laborers. "Union for ever" be our standing motto. [Signed] A. HAMAR.

The meeting is considered a great success, and we invite all districts to follow our movement, uniting the producers and laboring men.

Meeting of Producers at Oil City.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

OIL CITY, PA., October 10, 1872.

The meeting of the Council of Producers to-day was represented by twenty-six delegates out of thirty-two. The morning session was occupied by the appointment of standing committees and the afternoon in committee of the whole on a plan of permanent organization. The Council wavers between two opinions, the one a moneyed organization for the relief of small producers, and the other to control the production either by total or partial suspension of drilling for a given time, as emergencies may require. Most of the committees are in session to-night and will report to-morrow. The members of the Council have agreed to suspend all other business, and continue in session from day to day until some definite plan of action is agreed upon.

COMPLETE REFUTATION

Of the "Tribune" Charges Against Speaker Blaine

By Hon. Thomas Ewing, Jr.

COLUMBUS, O., October 10.—The Ohio State Journal to-morrow morning will publish a correspondence between Hon. James G. Blaine and Hon. Thomas Ewing, Jr., in regard to the charges recently made by the New York Tribune in reference to an alleged contract made with Speaker Blaine by General Ewing and Colonel J. C. Stone for nearly two million dollars of stock in the Leavenworth, Pawnee and Western Railroad Company, afterward merged into the Union Pacific, eastern division. The Tribune charge was that this stock had been received by Mr. Blaine in payment for the services of himself and other members of Congress in procuring the passage of the original Pacific Railroad act of 1862, and that it had been paid in pursuance of a contract made in 1862 by Col. Stone and Gen. Ewing. The letter is very full and explicit on the whole subject. The most important portion of the letter is as follows. General Ewing says: "So far as the charge imputes to your personal corruption in office, it is conclusively disposed of by public records, accessible to all, which show that you did not enter Congress for nearly a year and a half after the law referred to was passed; and as to the other branch of the charge, a very general knowledge of the business of the company, and especially my intimacy with you, make it certain that you could not have any contract with the company without my knowing the fact, and I unhesitatingly declare that you were not, in any manner or at any time, directly or indirectly, employed by the company, or in any way interested in it or its affairs, as a stockholder, or otherwise, in any capacity whatever. Your brother, J. E. Blaine, at that time Clerk of the District Court at Leavenworth, and one of the early settlers of Kansas, was owner of $10,000 of the stock of the Leavenworth, Pawnee and Western Railroad Company, which indeed was held very generally among influential men of all parties along the line of the road in Kansas; but that was in 1861 or 1862, and a considerable period before you were even nominated for your first term in Congress. Beyond that, there never was at any time the remotest any stock held by any member of your family. The entry of $1,920,000 of stock opposite the name of Blaine was, therefore, wholly a fiction or a blunder, and the grave imputation on your character and that of the officers and agents of the company are utterly groundless, and without a shadow of justification. I am informed that General Stone is now in Europe. He will doubtless take occasion, when he learns of these charges, to speak for himself about them. So far as my knowledge of the affairs of the company goes, I deliberately assert that it never, by any of its officers, agents or attorneys, made any contract, the proceeds of which there was no reasons to believe were to be in any manner participated in by any member of Congress or other public officer.

Very truly yours,

[Signed] THOMAS EWING, JR.

RAILWAY MATTERS.

Projection of a New Road in Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., October 10.—Articles of association were filed this morning for the Indianapolis Block Coal and Western Railroad Company. The road will be built through Marion, Hendricks, Morgan, Owen, Clay and Sullivan counties. Thomas H. Morris, J. C. Shoemaker, S. A. Fletcher, John M. Lord, E. J. Peck, W. O. Rockwood and A. H. Petti are elected directors for the first year. The stockholders number many leading citizens of Indianapolis.

Mr. Greeley at Baltimore

BALTIMORE, October 10.—Horace Greeley delivered an address before the Maryland State Agricultural and Mechanical Society to-day, at the fair grounds, treating especially on the improvement of worn out lands. About twelve thousand persons were present. To-night there was a grand torchlight procession by Democratic clubs, which was reviewed by Mr. Greeley. Previous to the passing of the procession, Mr. Greeley addressed an immense crowd in front of Carrollton Hall, in favor of national reconstruction and the restoration of common rights to every citizen now deprived of them. He said: "Let us be one people, an American people, forgetting our differences, deploring our past calamities, and resolved that we shall evermore be a united and harmonious people. For that cause of national unity and prosperity I stand and testify. I beseech you let nothing discourage you to press on to the triumph which will certainly be accorded us, if not in the near future, at a later day. Our cause is just. Let us never doubt, then, that a generous people will accord it, and that time shall write our memories green, in that we never despaired of our country, never deserted her, and never wished to make one citizen the enemy of the other, at a time when there was too much bitterness, but plead for peace and reconciliation. 'Blessed are the peace makers.' Let us endeavor to deserve and enjoy that blessing." Greeley left for New York in the eleven o'clock train to-night.

The Fair at St Louis a Great Success

ST. LOUIS, October 10.—The day has been generally observed as a holiday, and immense crowds of people have visited the fair. Fully sixty thousand were on the grounds during the day. The amphitheater in the afternoon was packed to its utmost capacity to witness the trotting race. Flora Bell won the first money, and Pilot Temple the second. The fair has proved a great success so far, and has equaled in point of attendance, general features and receipts any previous exhibition.

Ex-rebel General Braxton Bragg is of the party, and in response to a welcome address said he had endeavored ten years ago to visit Louisville, but there were so many obstacles in the way then that he had been unable to do so. Now, however, he came with a different purpose to accept the hand outstretched to Central and Southern Alabama and Georgia in friendship.

The steamship Columbia, from Glasgow, arrived at New York yesterday.

The anniversary of the birth of Father Mathew was celebrated yesterday by the Catholic temperance societies of Boston, Worcester and the principal cities of eastern Massachusetts. The procession in Boston was large and imposing.

At Brownsville, Texas, for several days past a heavy rain fall from the east has prevailed, and the country in many places is inundated and the roads are impassible. Hartranft's Majority Not Much Less Than 9,000.

The Return Judges will meet this morning, at ten o'clock, for the purpose of handing in the official vote of the several districts in the county. The official tables will be published to-morrow.

Official returns yesterday sent Hartranft's majority to about 8,300, which is likely to be increased to not much less than 9,000. Allen's majority will probably be about 1,500 less. Hartranft's majority will not be much, if any, less then Mercur's—it may be more.

THE CRUNCHED PARTY.

Specimen Groans from the Deeply Afflicted Democracy.

"IT HAS THE LOOK OF A FLOOD."

[From the Harrisburg Patriot, 9th.]

We give all the returns received up to the hour of going to press. They are not heavily charged with comfort to the Democracy and Liberals in Pennsylvania. The indications are that we have been effectually routed, and it remains for us to retire in as good order as practicable, having due regard for our wounded. * * * * * * The freemen, who are jealous for the honor of Pennsylvania, and who gathered around the upright statesman, Charles R. Buckalew, have been overborne by those who preferred party to purity, aided by repeaters and negroes imported from adjoining States. Philadelphia, under the skilful manipulation and unscrupulous management of a corrupt ring, has rolled in upon us from the east with a radical majority of almost twenty thousand, whilst Allegheny answers from the west with nearly half as much. A few of our old staunch Democratic counties, never faltering, but true as steel, send us rays of light which shine through the darkness which surrounds us. Just now we have little heart to speak of the future. We would think it only a shower that fell yesterday, but it has the look of a flood.

AN INFINITESIMAL AMOUNT OF COMFORT.

And then think, also, of the moral and professedly religious men who have aided the very worst men in the State to fasten such an array of evil upon us. While there is much to grieve over in this result, we should not be discouraged; the nominal majority of Hartranft is less than the admitted negro vote. The old voters, the white men of Pennsylvania, have been slaughtered by the African auxiliaries, even admitting that no frauds have been perpetrated. Pennsylvania is an important State, and her twenty-nine electoral votes have weight. In November the negroes will be needed in their own States, and the New York roughs will be required at home. But we can elect Greeley without Pennsylvania. Georgia is an index of the Southern vote, which will go with us almost solid. It is hard to have lost our own State, but no Democrat should flinch from another month's work.

THE NEXT CONGRESS.

The Republican Majority.

[From the New York Times.]

The elections yesterday render it reasonably certain that the next Congress—the Forty-third—will be Republican in the House of Representatives by a majority—close upon two-thirds of the whole House—of two hundred and nine-two members. Pennsylvania has elected nearly three-fourths Republican members out of her enlarged representation of twenty-nine members. Indiana, judging from the present returns for Governor, must send eight, if not nine, Republican members out of thirteen, and Ohio has probably elected fifteen Republicans out of twenty members. New York is good for twenty-two (possibly twenty four) Republicans out of thirty-three members in November, and Iowa and Michigan will send full Republican delegations of nine members each at the same time.

The new apportionment under the census of 1870 makes a House, for the next ten years of 292, as against 243 in the present House. The new Congress we believe, will be divided in the proportion of 191 Republican to 101 Opposition members, as follows:

States.	Republican.	States.	Opposition.
New England	27	New England	1
Middle	47	Middle	27
South-Western	7	South-Western	26
Western	70	Western	15
Pacific	5	Pacific	1
Southern	35	Southern	31
Total	191	Total	101

From results already known, the above calculation is more likely to be exceeded than to fall short when all the Congressional elections are held.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE ASSOCIATION.

Meeting Last Night.

The members of the Woman's Suffrage Association held a meeting last evening in the Board of Trade room, over the Third National Bank, Miss Matilda Hindman occupied the chair.

Miss Kate Smith, Secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were approved.

The following resolutions were then read and discussed:

Resolved, That women can hope for nothing from the election of Horace Greeley.

Resolved, That we accept the woman's rights plank in the platform of the Philadelphia convention.

Resolved, That it is our duty to use our influence for the re-election of President Grant.

Miss M. Hindman and Mrs. Helen P. Jenkins spoke in favor of the resolutions, and Prof. Burt and Mr. Proudfoot against them.

By a vote of those present no definite action was taken on the resolutions and the meeting adjourned.

Shooting Affray.

A shooting affray occurred on Wednesday afternoon at Fairview, on the West Penn railroad, about seven miles from Allegheny City, between Jacob Hart and Charles Jessup. The cause of the difficulty arose at the polls on election day, when Hart challenged Jessup's vote, the two men belonging to opposite parties. No serious ill-feeling seemed to be produced at the time, and on Wednesday the two men were in the city together. In the afternoon, however, after their return to Fairview, the subject of the challenge was brought up, and Jessup, it is said, spoke angrily about the matter. A quarrel resulted, and in the course of it, it is alleged, Hart drew his revolver and shot Jessup. The ball took effect in the lower part of the abdomen, on the left side. Wednesday night it was thought the wounded man was dying, but yesterday morning he rallied, and last night was in a favorable condition. Five physicians are attending him. Hart is still at large.

We would say in presenting the claims of the above companies, that their business not being confined to a limited territory, but covering at all desirable points throughout the country, they are less liable to be effected by losses of a local nature, which, to our local insurance interests too often proves disastrous.

Assuming even the magnitude of a Chicago calamity, their risks being well scattered, the receipts from numerous agencies soon equalize their losses, leaving their power to continue without impairment.

Judged by the standard of success, they stand prominently forth as having been eminently successful from the date of their organization to the present time.

The above companies are represented in Pittsburgh by Messrs. Coffin, Kellogg & Co., corner of Third avenue and Wood street, where applications for insurance will receive prompt attention.

The Opening of Salisbury Hall,

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1872.

"THERE is," says FORNEY, in trying to account for the magnificent victory achieved by the Republicans of this State last Tuesday, "a deep and peculiar philosophy in this result, which cannot escape even the most casual observer." Quite true. And one of the lessons which it conveys is that the people know how to deal with false friends fully as well as with open enemies. Lying crunched under the heel of popular indignation, no one certainly is better qualified to judge of the "philosophy" of the matter than himself. Whether it is at all calculated to console him is quite another question.

WRITING on the day preceding the October elections, the Boston Post said:

> "The State elections to be held to-morrow, the 8th, are universally regarded as indications of the final result in November. There may, of course, be changes, especially if the vote falls very close in any of the three large States about to elect their local governments; but the probabilities all go to confirm the opposite supposition."

As a paper of fairness we shall expect the Post to truly interpret the elections of the 8th, and admit frankly that they mean that GREELEY'S election is wholly out of the question, and that there is no motive with Democrats for further continuing the fight. Whether the Post does this or not, Democrats generally are doing it, and will act accordingly.

IF THERE is a Democrat who can give a good reason why the contest for GREELEY should be continued, the present moment is his opportunity. One runs no risk in saying that eight out of every ten Democrats, in this State at least, can perceive no reason for further effort for GREELEY. Without the remotest chance of an election, there does not exist the motive which usually addresses itself to a minority of making the best possible showing for the party's sake. With a true Democrat as the candidate the case would be altered, and Democrats might be appealed to with some success to keep up the fight and the colors flying. But in behalf of GREELEY, for whom very few Democrats ever had any other feeling than as the use of him promised to place the party in power, no such appeal can be made. If there is a Democrat who thinks himself able to do it, let him step to the front. He will be sure of numerous and attentive listeners.

GEN. HARTRANFT'S majority outside of Philadelphia is not less than ten thousand. It is about equally distributed through the State, the Republican gains being uniform in nearly all the counties. The impudent cry of fraud is thus disposed of, and the pretense whereby the supporters of BUCKALEW, and notably the New York Tribune, seek to break their fall exposed. This is as true of the remotest rural district as the more populous city ward. Even FORNEY repudiates the cry of fraud. "It would be folly," says he, "to allege that the great majority for HARTRANFT is the offspring of fraud. We believe it to be a legitimate majority." The truth is this great Republican victory—great beyond expectation and precedent—is the work of the people everywhere, the necessary outcome of a logic as inexorable as the action was deliberate. To challenge the verdict is only to manifest anew that folly which marked the canvass throughout against Gen. HARTRANFT. It shows how unworthy are they against whom it has been rendered.

THE Philadelphia Press begins at last to suspect that the people have fathomed its duplicity. "This is hardly the place," says that paper, in a review of the situation the day after the election, "for the Press to renew its attachment to Republican principles"—meaning, doubtless, the expression of its attachment; but unintentionally, in its construction of the phrase, confessing that it had lost its regard for the principles themselves, if, indeed, it ever entertained any genuine friendship for them. But the Press is quite right. Any professions from that quarter just now would only sink their author still more deeply than he lies at present in popular contempt. It is never wise for a traitor to protest his devotion in the very moment of his exposure. As well might a thief on whose person stolen property had been found, expect to convince a jury of his unimpeachable honesty, as for the Press to imagine that any protestations it may at present make of fealty to the principles of the Republican party, will have a feather's weight with any of its members. Its game is up.

ALECK MCCLURE, as Chairman of the Liberal Committee of this State, has issued an address to "the people of Pennsylvania," in which that incomparable corruptionist not only has the sublime impertinence to characterize the splendid Republican victory of last Tuesday as "the triumph of fraud," but in which he also shamefully insults the reputable intelligence of Philadelphia, by declaring that a large preponderance of its citizens gave their unqualified sanction to what they knew to be a deliberately planned pollution of the ballot box. This is the most towering culmination which colossal impudence could possibly reach. Pittsburgh is also included among the localities in which, according to MCCLURE, "thousands of illegal votes were cast," and "the highest prerogative of a free people was violently usurped by insolent and debauched power." What do our citizens think of that for a specimen of cloud-capped sentiment, issuing forth from a bottomless political abyss? Since the sulphureous harrangue of the chief of the baffled conspirators of whom MILTON has told us in his lofty verse, there has hardly ever been anything to match its effrontery.

FOLLY IN DEFEAT.

The Pittsburgh Post is not wise. That paper continues its attacks on the business men of this city, and of the country generally, in a manner which cannot fail in the end to react disastrously upon itself. When it impugns the character of eminent and worthy citizens for having contributed money from their private purses to avert a State and national calamity, it wholly oversteps the boundaries of legitimate political discussion; and when, reproducing from a contemporary, acknowledging it to be "a fact that the majority of business men" are in favor of the re-election of President GRANT, it derisively accuses them of representing "that mercantile timidity that kept LOUIS NAPOLEON twenty years on the throne of France," the Post in effect assails the best elements that lie at the foundation alike of our local prosperity and of our national progress. Most of the successful "business men" of this country, that paper well knows, began life poor, carving out their fortunes by dint of industry, energy, economy, sagacity and probity, and contributing to the prosperity of innumerable others in the degree of the extension of their own enterprises and the enlargement of their operations. The Post is not ignorant of the fact that the affairs of no class are separate and distinct from those of another; that the interests of labor are bound up with those of capital, and that the concerns of the workingmen of Allegheny county, as everywhere else, are intimately and vitally connected with those of the "business classes" whose prudence and attachment to principle seem to give that paper such mortal offense. If the Post is really bent on instituting a communistic crusade against order and tranquility and the safety of society generally, let it say so squarely and have done with it.

FAIR'S ACQUITTAL.

It is not yet too late to recall the attention of readers to the final acquittal of Mrs. LAURA M. FAIR. Politics may afford some excuse for postponing, but no sufficient reason for wholly failing to take due notice of an event which presents so striking an illustration of the beauties of our jury system. And our jury system is not the only subject of general interest which receives illumination from the tragedy of which FAIR'S acquittal has been the lame and impotent conclusion.

Some readers may need to be reminded that Judge CRITTENDEN, the victim of FAIR'S pistol, had a wife and family living in the East all the time of his illegal cohabitation with the woman who at last murdered him. Through his own reflections, or through outside influences, or as the result of both, at length led to think of his wife and children, and his duties toward them, Judge CRITTENDEN was seized with remorse and shame for his conduct, and resolved to dissolve his connection with FAIR, and to call his family to him. Toward FAIR he seems to have acted liberally, and even generously; at least, it never appeared that she complained of any failure on his part to satisfy any pecuniary claims which she saw fit to make upon him. On the steamer which runs between San Francisco and Oakland Judge CRITTENDEN met his family, as they were coming to join him, in answer to his summons, and at his first interview with his wife he vowed that he would never again part from her and her children. FAIR, who, closely veiled and in other ways disguised, had followed him on board the boat, and had witnessed the meeting between him and his family, at length drew a pistol and shot him dead in the presence of his wife.

When the case came on for trial in Court there could of course be no difficulty or doubt about the crime. It had been committed in the presence of many witnesses who completely identified the perpetrator, and the plea of temporary aberration of mind advanced in FAIR'S defense was remarkable even in the annals of California jurisprudence. Her argument was that she and CRITTENDEN, having been drawn to each other by the cords of "elective affinity," and allied in the bonds of spontaneous, irresistible affection (free love), their relation was more sacred and binding than any formal marriage could have been, and that she was therefore CRITTENDEN'S legitimate wife, while her rival, the regularly married Mrs. C., whose relation to him FAIR alleged, rested not upon love, but mere convenience, was no better than a vile adulteress. Upon the intelligent jury before whom the case was tried this peculiar defense made no favorable impression, and they found FAIR guilty of murder in the first degree.

When it became known that the murderess was to have the opportunity of a second trial, most people probably expected that she would be permitted to escape the penalty of her crime. Taking advantage of legal usages and refinements, FAIR'S counsel managed that the jurors selected were men so ignorant as to have formed no opinion favorable or adverse to the accused, already a convict, and they acquitted her on the ground of insanity. The assumption rested upon absolutely no evidence, as the Judge told them in his charge, and afterward when they applied for information on the subject. At both trials it was proved, beyond the possibility of cavil, that the woman did the deed in the entire possession of all her faculties and after mature consideration. But the jurors were probably determined to clear her, and took her insanity for granted as the only possible pretext upon which they could save her from the gallows. How much the murderess's good looks may have had to do with the action of the jury it is impossible to say. But the case is one of a class growing every year more numerous, which loudly calls for legislative interference on behalf of the public interest.

THE GERMAN PAPERS ON THE ELECTION.

"What the Electoral Victory of Tuesday Signifies" is the title of the leading article in the Freiheits Freund of yesterday. It says:

> "The glorious victory of the Republican State tickets in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana, a victory more complete than the most sanguine party politician could have expected, forms the decisive turning point in the present electoral struggle. 'The State elections of to-morrow decide the coming Presidential election'—thus we read in the Monday's number of the Cincinnati Volksblatt, the organ of Mr. Fritz Hassaurek, the man who has won for himself so little enviable a notoriety by going over into the Greeley camp in consequence of unfortunate financial operations. And so it is. The personal organ of Mr. Greeley, the New York Tribune, has not without cause continually emphasized the importance of the elections in Pennsylvania, and put down the same as decisive for the issue of the Presidential campaign. "As Pennsylvania goes in October, so goes the Union in November"—this proposition was accepted by friend and foe as infallible truth. And for this reason the opponents of our Republican candidate for Governor have concentrated against him all their batteries of hatred and calumny. As usually happens in such things, however, precisely the excess of calumniation called forth reaction in favor of Hartranft. With all their faults and infirmities the American people are a very generous and fair minded people. They had no sooner seen through the impure motives of Hartranft's opponents than they manifested for the unjustly persecuted a sympathy perhaps not before felt in the same measure. When all the charges against the Republican candidate for Governor had been individually exhibited in their nullity, it was evident that the Democratic party and the party of Liberal Republicans, which it had taken in tow, could found their game only on the gross delusion of the people. And the people understood the perfidious game of intrigue played by the corrupt Democratic-Liberal crew, and have becomingly snubbed them. Seldom, indeed, in the political history of the country, has retribution so swiftly and visibly followed unfounded and malignant calumnies. But besides the splendid vindication of the character of our candidate for Governor the issue of the late election has another and higher significance. It is the death blow to the Greeley bargain which, begun in Cincinnati, was ratified in Baltimore. On the 8th of October the American people expressed their solemn judgment of condemnation in reference to a political movement which had lost all and every moral basis. The verdict of the people on Tuesday means a vote of confidence in the upright and capable administration of President Grant. We frankly confess our heartfelt joy that the last elections have ended a political contest which threatened to become every day more odious and embittered. The great Fall campaign is now, according to the testimony of our opponents themselves, definitely decided. But, although the election of Grant and Wilson in November is placed beyond all doubt, yet it would be unwise to lay our hands in our bosoms and to resign ourselves up to a foolish assurance of victory. 'Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty,' is the famous saying of Jefferson, which, at the present time, we should especially lay to heart. The point to be aimed at is not only that the November elections shall have for result a victory of the Republican party, but that the victory shall be so grand and overwhelming as to reveal the will of the American people in its entire might. And we have no doubt that the victory of Tuesday, gained after so hard and bitter a struggle, is only a prelude to the still far more splendid victory in November."

The organ of the German reformers, the Volksblatt, of yesterday, devotes an entire column to a discussion of the elections of the 8th instant. Beginning with a confession that "it is not the most agreeable task to be the HOMER of one's own misfortune," the Volksblatt says:

> "The coalition of the Liberal Republicans and the Democrats was on, the 8th of October, everywhere smitten on the head. It has suffered a Waterloo defeat. We do not even believe that the State of Indiana will form any exception. Pennsylvania, Ohio, Iowa and Nebraska have by large majorities declared for the continuance of the Republican party rule. Grant will be again elected to the Presidency of the United States by a larger majority than four years ago—that is the true meaning of the State elections of the eighth of October. The election of electors on the fifth of November is now merely an empty formality—the signing of an already concluded contract. On that point doubt can no longer prevail among people capable of judgment."

And then the Volksblatt goes on in a very rational and dispassionate way to account for what has happened. It confidently prognosticates a Liberal victory four years hence.

A Significant Fact.

It is a fact of no little significance that General Hartranft carried his own county, against an opposition majority of about 800; that Buckalew ran behind his ticket in his county; while Lancaster, the home of Billingfelt, gave Hartranft 5,000 majority, and Bellefonte, the home of Curtin, gave Hartranft an increased majority.

OF "poor Carlotta," ex-Empress of Mexico, it is said that the recent report of her extreme ill health is untrue. Although in the best bodily health, her intellect seems to have dwindled to that of an infant while she also exhibits the perversity and petty maliciousness which is so frequently developed in the noblest natures by the demon of madness. She spends most of her time in her room, where she spreads her dresses over the chairs, and fancies that they clothe the ladies of her transient court. She still remembers dimly that Napoleon was closely connected with the tragedy of her life, and frequently sends long and incoherent telegraphic messages to the Imperial schemer whom vengeance has at last overtaken.

THE jurors who sat in the late trial of Laura Fair say that on retirement their first ballot showed ten for acquittal and two for murder in the first degree. The only point of issue with them was sanity or insanity. At nine o'clock on Sunday evening, after being out fifty-two hours, one of the minority consented to acquiesce in a verdict of acquittal, and the remaining one concluded that the majority were the wiser, and joined them in the verdict. One of the jurors says they understood the judge to say they could give the prisoner the benefit of any doubt upon the question of insanity. They were supplied with three gallons of whisky before they went out to deliberate, and other luxuries befitting their condition in life.

THE cereal crops of the United States for 1871 aggregated 1,650,000,000 bushels, valued at $1,000,000,000. About 125,000,000 bushels reached the seaboard. Of the latter quantity, New York received about eighty per cent., and Boston, Philadelphia and other ports the remainder. These crops are mainly transported by canal, but the tendency is toward more extensive transportation by rail. It is estimated that, during the present year, 18,000,000 bushels will be moved entirely and 25,000,000 bushels partly by rail, leaving, on the basis of last year's crops, about 82,000,000 bushels to be moved wholly by water.

THE Southern Claim Commission have just collated from the much talked of Confederate archives a full list of the names of the voters in Virginia in May, 1861, when the ordinance of secession was voted on. From this list it can be seen in a few minutes exactly how a person voted on that question, and if a claimant files or has filed a claim for damages or loss of goods taken by Union soldiers, and his name is "for ratification," his claim will be instantly dropped, that being sufficient for the commission to judge his loyalty. This, however, will not in any manner affect those who have already had their claims acted upon by Congress.

THE postmaster general of England, in his annual report, quotes, among others, the following complimentary letter from an American gentleman, which goes far to prove the perfection to which the postal system has been brought in England: "Having recently arrived in England, and not knowing the present whereabouts of a sister, I addressed a letter to her late residence thus: 'Upper Norwood, or elsewhere.' I received a reply in orderly course of mail, saying it had been delivered to her on the top of a stage coach in Wales. I venture to say no other country can show the parallel, or would take the trouble at any price."

A CERTAIN English scientist, one Dr. Bree, has entered the lists against Darwin. He makes three main arguments against the latter's theory, saying, First, that all animals have not been developed from a few types of organized life, because Agassiz's researches show that there were as many genera and species in given districts ages ago as there are now. Secondly, that Darwin's statements concerning the variation of animals under domestication are false, inasmuch as all such variations quickly die out instead of perpetuating themselves. Thirdly, that there is nothing "tentative" in nature; but "all is perfect, and all was always perfect."

That's what Pennsylvania said on Tuesday. "First catch your hare."

IN a speech at Holyoke, Mass., a few nights ago, Mr. Stearns said: "Talk about Grant reducing the national debt! By-and-by they will want us to worship the jackass our Savior rode on." Stearns was born too late to be thus honored.

Exactly—nothing for the Confederates to brag of.

OBITUARY.

William Henry Seward.

This eminent statesman died at his home in Auburn, New York, yesterday, at the advanced age of seventy-one years. Few distinguished men of modern times ever enjoyed a wider distinction than that which he obtained; neither does it fall to the happy lot of many to outlive the prejudices of political opponents so thoroughly as Mr. Seward was able to do; or at the close of an unusually protracted and commanding public career, to be held in such universal respect.

Mr. Seward's public life and services have already passed into the world's history, and hardly need be recited here. Born in 1801, of a family notable for its intellectual vigor, he very early in life gave promise of the rare powers which were afterward wielded with so much force and effect for his country, civilization and humanity. Entering the political arena when but twenty-three years old, he soon became a recognized leader of the party of progress in New York. Before reaching the age of thirty he had, as a Senator of that State, elected by the Whig party, originated measures relating to internal improvements, education, the reform of the militia system, the abolition of imprisonment for debt, the amelioration of prison discipline, etc., which stamped him as one of the most enlightened legislators of that period. Most of these measures, which encountered great opposition at the time, and subsequently when he became Governor of the State, have since been substantially adopted and enacted as law. The reform of the abuses of the courts, the perfection of the banking system, the creation of a geological survey, the establishment of a lunatic asylum and the blotting out of every vestige of slavery from the statute books, were also distinguishing features of his administration as Governor, which extended through two terms. During this period Governor Seward proved himself to be one of the ablest and staunchest as well as earliest members of the anti-slavery party; taking also, in a correspondence which arose between himself and the Executive of Virginia, on an application of the latter for the return of some seamen charged with abducting slaves, the then startling ground that no State could force a requisition on another State, founded on an act made criminal only by its own legislation. In 1849 Governor Seward was elected to the Senate of the United States, of which body, on almost all questions, he soon came to be regarded as the leader. While thus serving he openly avowed his determination to make no further concessions to the slave power; declaring that there was a "higher law" than the Constitution, which regulated our authority over the national domain. This phrase, "higher law," was made the subject of much angry comment in the Senate and the public prints, and Mr. Seward was hotly denounced by his political enemies as a seditious and dangerous agitator. He also declared that the constant collision between the systems of free and slave labor in the United States was the result of an "irrepressible conflict" between opposing and enduring moral forces, which would continue until we "became entirely a slaveholding nation or entirely a free labor nation." Mr. Seward was re-elected to the Senate in 1855, his second term ending with the close of Buchanan's administration. In 1860, as had also been the case in 1856, a large portion of the Republican party favored his nomination for the Presidency. But failing to obtain the nomination, he promptly and warmly supported Mr. Lincoln, and soon after the meeting of the electoral college, was tendered the chief place in Lincoln's cabinet—a position which he held throughout his administration (being reappointed by the President at the commencement of his second term), down to the close of that of Johnson. His calm and comprehensive mastery of the vast burdens and duties of the office of Secretary of State, during the war, have given him an acknowledged place among the foremost statesmen of history.

On the night of the assassination of President Lincoln, and almost at the identical moment of Booth's entry into the theater, a murderous attack was made on Mr. Seward by a confederate in the infernal plot, who succeeded in forcing his way into the Secretary's house, and, after wounding several other persons, in inflicting a number of frightful but providentially not fatal stabs on the neck and face of his intended victim—then confined to his bed by very serious injuries received a short time previously by having been thrown from his carriage.

Since his retirement to private life Mr. Seward has devoted his leisure chiefly to study and travel, some two years ago making a tour through the principal countries of the world, and everywhere being received with almost regal honors. The history of this notable journey, in the preparation of which he was engaged until a short time before his death, is about to be published in permanent form, and will constitute an important addition to our literature of travel.

Multifarious and arduous as were the professional and official duties of Mr. Seward during his public career, he still found time for the pursuits of science, philosophy and literature. His printed works, which are quite numerous, bear ample testimony to the high standard of his scholarship and attainments; while as a lawyer and jurist he also took very high rank. He has gone down to the grave covered with honor and affection, and his fame and memory will be co-equal and co-extensive with the history of the eventful period with which they are so indissolubly associated.

GENERAL AND PARTICULAR.

Boston is organizing a national dog show, like that of England, with several thousand dollars premium. The receipts will be large, but unless the expenses are cur-tailed and kept within bow-wounds, the result will be terrierble to the stockholders.

Orders from abroad have actually exhausted the supply of Lygodram Palmatum, or creeping fern, which grows so abundantly in New England.

In some eating houses the following songs are sung: Hash—short meater. Bologna sausage—long meater. Rolled pork—common meater. Porter house steak—particular meater. At free lunches clam eater prevails.

In 1851 the value of the jute exported from Calcutta amounted to $875,873. Now it is about $25,000,000 a year. Mats are responsible for some of this, but back hair is largely responsible for the increase.

The leading publishers of Boston and New York report that the literary business, which is remarkably brisk this fall, has suffered much less in the present political campaign than it usually suffers in the years of Presidential elections.

The medicine chest of one of the abandoned Arctic whalers was recently broken open by some of the natives, who, thinking they had found a prize, proceeded to swallow the contents of all the bottles. The survivors describe the result as startling, for the doses were too large for the constitution of even an Esquimaux. Several of the partakers died, and others wanted to, but couldn't.

An entire English household, man, wife, children, and servants—has caught the foot-and-mouth disease by drinking the milk of a sick cow. This shows the unpleasant possibilities of the Texas cattle disease that is now making such havoc in the West.

A Solomonian parent in Michigan, having rather spoiled a rod than spared his child, the dutiful little little boy laid wait for him with a shot gun and gave him another sort of a charge to keep, and of such is the kingdom of heaven.

A Charleston man committed suicide the other day, because he had eaten so many reed birds that he was unable to devour the specially fine one that he had reserved for the last.

One of the largest chains ever manufactured in this country is to be made at the Massachusetts State Prison. It will be made of iron of two and a quarter inches in diameter, and there will be three hundred links, each of which will weigh about fifty pounds.

The oldest inhabitant of Duluth has been there about eleven years, and is selling corner lots, bought at $1 25 per acre at that time, for $1,000, and considers that price cheap.

An old settler of California has a horse thirty-two years old, with which he crossed the plains in 1846, he being then a four-year-old. He has been constantly worked for thirty years, and still his eye is not dimmed nor his natural vigor abated.

A firm of real estate dealers in Chicago have asked an injunction to restrain certain other parties from issuing an atlas of the city, asserting that they have been for some time preparing a similar atlas, embracing nearly three hundred maps, to which these other parties were given access on the expressed condition that they should be used only for reference, but that they are now about to publish an atlas, the data for which are mainly drawn from their maps.

The enterprise and activity of the people of Kentucky have led to the production of a new religion. We thought that the market was already overstocked with the commodity of sects, and he would be a benefactor of his race who would cause one to grow where now there are two. The new sect is a "community," and it calls itself by the enticing name of "Soul Sleepers."

Down in Tennessee a man was recently indicted for murder on the sole testimony of a sister of the murdered man. Being released on bail, he devoted himself assiduously to this dangerous witness, and before the time of trial, effectually debarred her from testifying against him by marrying her. He was acquitted for want of evidence, but not every man having his choice between hanging and marriage would choose the latter alternative.

The International Society in New York propose to organize a life insurance company and to establish a newspaper—two things very good in themselves, but utterly hopeless under such management as that of the Internationals, who have never succeeded in doing anything they set out to do, save the backing they gave to the Commune in Paris.

"What are you drawing, Anna?" "I'se making your pictur'." So the gentleman sat very still, and she worked very earnestly for awhile. Then she stopped, compared her work with the original, and shook her head. "I don't like it much," she said. "Taint a great deal like you. I dess I'll put a tail to it and call it a dog."

Medicine Bear tried, the other day, during his visit to the White House, to adjust his war-shirt to Gen. Grant's person, but was stopped by Gen. Cowan, who told him that the Great Father would make a shift to do without it for the present.

A SINGULAR illustration of how the best intentions may produce anything but good results occurred in the penitentiary at Auburn, N. Y., lately. There were five hundred temperance tracts left for distribution among the convicts, and as they were carefully prepared and likely to be convincing in their arguments against intemperance, the chaplain did not hesitate to give them to the black sheep of which his flock was composed. One of the leading features of the pamphlet was a careful analysis of liquor, giving in full the drugs and poisons which it contains, and was intended to intimidate on physical, if not on moral grounds. But, so far from doing this, the analysis was used as a recipe, and the convicts, who, by some way unknown, succeeded in getting the ingredients, secretly manufactured their own whisky, upon which they reveled until its effects betrayed them to the eyes of the prison authorities, when the tracts were probably recalled.

THE exhibition of a remarkable fine class of blooded stock in the California State Fair, is suggestive of the remarkable change that has taken place in the agriculture of that State. The old wasteful system of vast droves of cattle roaming over unfenced pastures, and liable to be destroyed by the extremes of drought and flood, has given way to the improved plan of more careful housing and selection. The fact, also, that the pioneers of the new system are all growing rich, while the adherents of the old plan are rapidly drifting into bankruptcy, may be regarded as significant of the future, when the raising of a few head of choice stock for work and slaughter, for dairy products and wool, in small fields kept well grassed, will be a part of every intelligent farmer's business, and go far to increase

PERSONAL.

The Memphis papers relate a story of a bold adventurer, who jumped off a steamboat coming up the river, thereby saving the life of a pretty and favorite poodle dog, and who is likely to gain a fortune and a wife for having done so. An aged maid of money and sourness, who was a passenger on the City of Helena, from Vicksburg to St. Louis, dropped her dog into the river as the steamer was coming up. The bold and impecunious youth sympathized with the lady, and saved the life of her purp while risking his own. He became a fast friend of the lady; had his quarters transferred from the deck to the cabin, and has every prospect of becoming a husband (and a millionaire) in St. Louis within a month.

A San Francisco journal states that a wealthy miner has fallen in love with Mrs. Fair, and will marry her.

A Mrs. Catharine Strange, of Ottumwa, Iowa, has just completed the grading of two miles of the road-bed of a railroad out there. Well, making beds is the proper sort of work for women.

The London Athenæum says of the late King of Sweden that he deserves mention as one of the few monarchs of the day who have ranked among authors. His essays on military subjects were by no means despicable productions, and he was a frequent contributor to the Swedish newspapers. The bitter tone of some of his articles gave considerable offense to the Germans.

The dedication of a monument to Baron Steuben, the other day, has brought out a crop of anecdotes about the old hero—among the rest, this: The State of New York had voted him a township of land, on which he settled. It was proposed by some of his neighbors to build a school-house, and he offered a site near his own dwelling. Somebody suggested that he might be annoyed by the pranks of the boys. "Hagel!" said he, "what do I care for that? I want to see the little devils fight!"

A prominent citizen of St. Louis was among the passengers of the ill-fated Metis. He is a nervous man, and while floating in the water imagined what his friends would do to acquaint his wife with his fate. Saved at last, he rushed to the telegraph office and sent this message: "Dear P., I am saved. Break it gently to my wife." It is understood the insurance on his life was very large.

Thomas Cook, the well known English tourist, has arrived at New York from England, with a party of ladies and gentlemen, for a journey around the globe.

Miss Kate Stanton is going to lecture in Boston on "The Loves of Great Men," and nineteen out of every twenty Bostonians fear that she intends to divulge the heart-secrets of their private lives.

Madame Nilsson-Rouzaud is in Paris making arrangements to complete her engagements and return to the United States. It is likely she will retire to private life on her arrival in New York, in a mansion on Fifth avenue.

The stories about the Empress Charlotte, of Mexico, being at the point of death were so far from being true that it now turns out that this unhappy lady is in the possession of perfect bodily health. Her mental malady, however, is worse than ever. Her madness has degenerated into a kind of childishness, but is unaccompanied by any violence. The Empress's mind is overcast, disdainful and sometimes imperious, but quiet and gentle, and as nearly all her caprices are satisfied, she has no reason to feel tormented. The greatest part of her time is spent in sending telegraphic dispatches to Napoleon III., whom she still believes to be on the throne, and conversing with spirits, which she says haunt the upper stories of the chateau, whose language she boasts of knowing, and whose advice she follows. No affection has remained in her heart, not even for her brother. All hope of cure has been given up, and the doctors say that her health is such as promises a long life.

This is pretty, and quite Frenchy: M. Thiers every morning for twenty years, has been the romantic recipient of a boquet of fresh flowers from an unknown hand. While in prison the posies still found their way through the bars and refreshed him with a fragrance for which he has never been able to discover the proper person to thank.

AN interviewer has elicited the fact from President Watson, of the New York and Erie Railroad, that it has been fully decided to cut down the gauge of the road to the ordinary width. The operation will consume five years, during which time the stockholders are informed that they will not receive a single dividend. As Erie stockholders have become somewhat acclimated to not receiving dividends, it is confidently expected that the new affliction will be accepted with becoming resignation. It is claimed that, with the broad gauge, Erie can never be made to pay, while with an ordinary gauge it will pay immediately.

Defend Your Health.

The fall of the leaves not only symbolizes human decay, but promotes it. In other words, the effluvia from dying and rotten vegetation is unfavorable to health. To this and other causes—especially excess of moisture in the atmosphere—may be ascribed to the prevalence of acute disorders of the stomach, bowels and liver at this season. Every person of bilious habit is liable to be very bilious in the fall. Then, too, all persons whose digestion is weak are more than ordinarily dyspeptic, and individuals predisposed to colic, diarrhœa and dysentary are particularly likely to be attacked by these complaints. The most complete defense against each and all of these distressing ailments is bodily vigor. To obtain this blessing in all its plentitude where it does not exist, and to preserve and perpetuate it where it does exist, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is earnestly recommended. It is the peculiar office of this preparation to reinforce and regulate the important organs which digest and temper the food, and convert it into life-sustaining blood. Bodily vigor depends upon the nourishing qualities of that fluid, and the nutritiousness of the blood depends upon the functional activity and regularity which it is the special province of the Bitters to secure. Hence it is the best defense of health at this season, and indeed at all seasons. When dysentery, diarrhœa, bilious colic, and other violent affections of the bowels, become epidemic, as they often do in certain parts of the country in the fall, it will be found that persons who have been wise enough to resort to the Bitters as a preventive are almost invariably exempted from the scourge.

QUARTERMASTER GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., September 23, 1872.

STOVES FOR UNITED STATES ARMY.

Manufacturers are requested to send to this Office Printed Descriptive Cuts and Price Lists of such Stoves as they make, and can recommend for use of the Army in Garrison and Camp.

The rooms in quarters of officers are generally of moderate size, not over 15 or 16 feet square.

The Cooking Stove or Range, for troops, should be of size to cook for eighty (80) men. Wrought iron, as less liable to breakage is preferable to cast iron, for these large cooking stoves.

Pieces should be put on cars or vessels securely packed for transportation.

Prices of span parts are also desired.

From these lists it is intended to select those which, being suitable for the purpose, will be least costly in each geographical Military Department, or at each Post to be supplied.

[Signed], M. C. MEIGS, Quartermaster General,
Brevet Major General U. S. A.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

THURSDAY EVENING, October 10, 1872.

The question has been asked us why it is that the Postoffice Department now charges double rates on the unpaid portion of letters when delivered, when the charge was formerly the same as if the package had been fully prepaid. We give the sections of the new postal law bearing on the subject:

SECTION 151. That all mail matter deposited for mailing, on which at least one full rate of postage has been paid, as required by law, shall be forwarded to its destination, charged with the unpaid rate to be collected on delivery.

SEC. 152. That if any mail matter, on which by law the postage is required to be prepaid at the mailing office, shall by inadvertence reach its destination without such prepayment, double the prepaid rates shall be charged and collected on delivery.

From the above we were led to believe that only the usual rates should be charged at the office of delivery on letters having one stamp affixed, where such letters were not fully prepaid, and that section 152 referred to mail matter having no portion of the postage prepaid, and which had reached its destination by inadvertence. Such seems to be the rational reading of the act, but we have learned that the rulings of the department under the law are often very different from the natural meaning of the language of the act itself. The following letter from the Postoffice Department has been received bearing on the matter, which gives the ruling of the authorities on the subject:

POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT, APPOINTMENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C., October 2, 1872.

GENTLEMEN: In reply to your letter of September 30th, I have to say that nowhere in the new postal code is the unpaid rate on mail matter defined, except in section 152.

It is there stated to be "double the prepaid rate" on matter which inadvertently reaches its destination without prepayment.

It cannot be held that this section applies only to matter entirely unpaid, and matter intentionally underpaid at a mailing office, as it does not say so; therefore it must be applied also to matter partially prepaid through inadvertence or otherwise.

The assumption that the unpaid rate on mail matter is the same as the prepaid rate, that is on letters three cents for each half ounce or fraction thereof, is not borne out by the present law, or any previous enactments wherein the unpaid rate has invariably been fixed at a higher than the prepaid rate. Very respectfully, JAMES H. MARR,

Acting First Assistant Postmaster General.

PRODUCE AND GENERAL MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL, THURSDAY, October 10, 1872.

REMARKS—The excitement consequent upon the election is well nigh passed away, and business is resuming its wonted channels. There is, however, little or no change to note in prices, the market, as a general thing, ruling about the same as last week.

Flour is held firmly and prices fully maintained. The stocks on hand are adequate to meet the demand. No concessions will be made by holders to effect sales.

Wheat is in fair request and prices are well maintained, though the rates are unchanged. There are still quite a number of country millers in the market, and city mills are buying more freely.

Bacon and provisions are held firmly at previous quotations, and an active trade is reported in both old and new meats.

In the line of groceries we are reported a fair trade demand, and dealers are looking forward to the fall trade in the confident expectation that it will prove a rich harvest.

The following are the receipts of the leading articles since our last issue:

Cattle.

At the time of closing our last report the market was dull, particularly on the lower grades. On Thursday the receipts proving lighter the feeling on good became more firm, though there was no advance in figures; common remained as they were, selling dull and low at mean prices.

On Friday, which is generally the last market day of the week, there was a fair trade done, good when offering finding purchasers. The advices from New York were favorable, and this, with cooler weather, caused a better feeling at the close of the market than had ruled at the opening. Most of the stock was shipped out and the balance was sent to Allegheny for retail. This week trade opened up on Tuesday with a fair supply of cattle offered, but nothing was done, but few buyers being here, they remaining at home no doubt on account of the election.

On Wednesday the supply of cattle on sale was large and the market ruled slow on all kinds, except the very best. To-day a fair number of cattle are changing hands, but the prices they are bringing are not very good. Dealers say there is no improvement over last week, prices being about the same.

At this writing there is a good many cattle in the yards unsold, but if the receipts do not come heavy towards the close, it looks as if the yards would be cleared of stock.

Bulls.

The supply of bulls on sale this week limited. There is a number of buyers here purchasing for still houses, and anything of a good quality sell readily.

Stockers.

There is a great many cattle on sale fit for nothing but stockers. For them there is but little demand, and trade drags dull and slow.

PRICES.

Extra 1,400 to 1,500 ℔ steers, fine and smooth, $6 75 to $7 00; extra 1,300 ℔s, fine and smooth, $6 25 to $6 50; prime 1,200 ℔s, fine and smooth, $5 50 to $5 75; fair 1,100 ℔s, $4 75 to $5 25; fair 1,000 ℔s, $4 00 to $4 25; common $3 50 to $3 75; stockers $3 00 to $3 75; bulls, $2 50 to $3 00.

Hogs.

The supply of hogs on sale has been about equal to the demand. Last week it was greater and of course prices ruled dull and lower, but with a decreased supply and the demand about equal to the offerings the feeling improved, and to-day the trade is moderately active with sales being about as fast as offerings arrived. Good hogs are wanted, and if the receipts prove light toward the close of the week an advance will undoubtedly occur. Below will be found the prices current in the different grades.

PRICES.

Extra Philadelphia $5 30 to $5 35; prime Philadelphia $5 20 to $5 25; prime Yorkers, $4 75 to $4 85; good, $4 65; common, $4 50; roughs, $4 25 to $4 40.

Sheep.

The run of sheep light and of a better quality than the offerings of the last few weeks. Trade is good and with a supply not greater than the the demand the market is firm and steady. Prices were a shade higher than last week, and at this time it looks as if trade would rule steady the balance of the week. Below will be found the prices current on the different grades; Extra 100 ℔s sheep, fine wool, $6 25@6 50; prime, 95 ℔s sheep, prime 95 ℔s sheep, fine wool, $6@6 10; prime, 85 ℔s sheep, fine wool, $5 50@5 75; good 80 ℔s sheep, fine wool, $5 00@5 25; common $4 00@4 50; scalawags $2@3 50 per head.

IRON MARKETS.

NEW YORK.

October 9.—The market for Scotch pig has relapsed into a very quiet state. Holders are as firm as ever, but in the absence of any large demand from consumers, but little has been done. Private advices from the other side, under date of 21st ult., mention a difficulty in obtaining prime No 1 brands, and 167s 6d as having been paid for No 1 Coltness, prompt delivery, while quantities could not be obtained, except at full figures, and though the market generally has a firm tone, an uneasy feeling for the future seems to prevail. About 1,500 tons, principally Summerlee and Glengarnock, have arrived since our last, about three-quarters of which has been sold, part before arrival —the particulars are say 100 tons Eglinton at $53 35, 60 days, 75 do Gartsherrie $57, 300 do Summerlee $56@56, 100 do Glengarnock on private terms; 4@500 do various brands at about our quotations, and 80 tons Eglinton to close an invoice, at $53 50. No 1 foundry American is firm at our figures, while gray forge is more plenty, and with stocks somewhat accumulating, prices are scarcely so strong, and we only hear of 250 tons No 1, deliverable at Hoboken, at $55. New English rails are quiet at $73@75, gold, and American $85@87 50, currency, at the mills in Pennsylvania, with sales of 3,700 tons of the latter on private terms. Old rails are in very large supply, and though we quote nominally $47@48 gold, which is lower than for a long time past, buyers still hold off, showing no disposition to operate to a large extent—we note sales of 1,400 tons on private terms. Scrap continues weak and prices are unsettled; we quote $45@46 from dock, and $47@49 from yard, with sales of 125 tons from dock at $45, and 500 do for Baltimore on private terms. Refined bar from store is rather steady at old figures, but the feeling is hardly so confident as a few weeks ago; business only moderate.—Commercial List.

EUROPEAN IRON TRADE.

A late Liverpool paper says: In consequence of the high price of iron, a check has been given to the demand for constructive ironwork, and the substitution of other materials for iron is resorted to whe ever practicable. The Wolverhampton letters state that the iron trade has lately been quiet. As a rule the iron masters have sufficient orders to complete to absorb their produce for some little time. The current quotations for pig iron are £8 for best brands, £6 for cinders, and £9 5s for best cold blast Shropshire brands. In finished iron bars average £14 10s, at the second class houses, but the leading houses quote fully 20s higher. Sheets are £20@21; singles are a shade easier. The general tendency in prices is less firm. The price of coal is fully maintained, and in some instances a further advance is asked. Another paper says: A well informed and trustworthy correspondent in Lanarkshire informs us that the unprecedented prosperity of the malleable iron trade is threatened with a sudden collapse, in consequence of the slackness of orders this month, and the continued rising of the prices of pig iron and coal. We understand that two large works have already given their men the usual fortnight's notice, without any further stipulation in the meantime that their services will be continued, unless, indeed, they may be retained on a day's warning. With regard to the coal, it may be stated that the last alleged "rise" of 5s 6d ℔ ton appears to have been a "dodge" on the part of the agents who have bought heavily, and there is nothing noted here in regard to it.

WOOL MARKETS.

NEW YORK.

October 9.—In consequence of the unsettled state of the market manufacturers are unwilling to purchase at prices asked. It is believed the sale of Messrs. Walter Brown & Son, on the 10th inst., will tend to establish a standard, but at figures somewhat lower than the present nominal market rates. The inquiry is principally for domestic. A further shipment of 800 bales Cape from Boston to the other side has been made. The sales foot up 180 bales Australian at 52@57c; 95 do Cape at 35@38c; 5,000 ℔s Texas at 37½c; 5,000 ℔s lambs', pulled, at 47½c; 5,000 ℔s unwashed Western fleece at 48c; 5,000 ℔s X X Ohio do at 62½c; 20,000 ℔s Wisconsin do at 57½c; 9,000 ℔s California spring at 27½@40c; 6 bales do fall at 25c; 10,000 ℔s Turkey and 25 bales short extra on private terms. By auction, 33 bales damaged Cape sold at 30¼@33c cash.—Commercial List.

HOP MARKET.

NEW YORK.

October 9.—The demand is still only for small parcels to supply immediate wants, buyers waiting the course of the foreign markets in the expectation that prices will go low enough abroad to admit of free shipments hither. The receipts from the West of the new crop, however, are very moderate, and stocks do not accumulate to any extent, so that holders have more confidence than before, and prices are firm at 25@30c, as to quality.

Gold Closed at 112⅞@113

NEW YORK, October 10, 1872—P. M.

MONEY.

Money opened at 7 per cent., became easier and loaned freely as low as 5; less freely at 3 and was in some cases offered at 2. The lowest rates are undoubtedly artificial and to be attributed to the operations of bears in stock.

EXCHANGE.

Sterling higher, in consequence of the advance in the rate of interest by the Bank of England. Prime 60 days sold at 8⅜ and sight at 10⅛.

GOLD.

Gold was higher from the same cause, and strong all day at between 112¾ and 113, closing at 112⅞@113. Loans were made at from 1 to 4 per cent. for carrying, then 2 per cent. to ⅛ for the use. Clearings were $58,000,000. Treasury disbursements were $55,500.

GOVERNMENTS.

Governments were ⅛@¼ per cent. better than yesterday, and strong.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE.

Stocks opened strong, but there was a break in Pacific Mail before the first board, the stock dropping 3½ per cent. and spreading a feeling of distrust throughout the list. Dealings were well distributed, but an attempt to sell stock by the Pacific Mail and Western Union cliques broke prices generally 1@4 per cent. The Atlantic and Pacific Mail consolidation bubble was pricked, the price falling to 18, rallying to 20. The spurt in Wabash subsided, and it dropped from 72 to 69⅞. Mr. Drew making active testimonials to trading. Toward the close a general improvement set in, with large transactions, notably in Pacific Mail, Western Union, Onios, Wabash, Chicago, Columbus and Indiana Central, Lake Shore, Northwest and New York Central. The market closed strong.

THE marks last evening indicated three feet three inches by the stone marks. This makes three feet ten inches at Glass House. The rise is from the Allegheny.

THE Petrolia leaves to-day for Parkersburg.

THREE feet water was reported at Oil City and at a stand.

THE Great Republic will be let into the water in about two weeks.

THE river was rising yesterday at Greensboro, with thirty inches in the channel.

THE John Lumsden struck an obstruction on her last up trip, breaking several floor timbers.

THE Grand Lake Company's new steamer has been named Samuel Miller. She is a beauty, and no mistake.

FELIX BRAMMER has sold one-sixteenth of the Chesapeake to Drake J. Murdock for $1,000. The parties are of Ironton.

CAPT. WASH. HONSHELL is suffering with lung fever at Catlettsburg, and Capt. Wash Kerr is commanding the Granite State.

CAPTAIN MOSE KIRKPATRICK, a Cincinnati and St. Louis pilot, goes to the Wabash river, to superintend the improvements in that stream.

THE United States packets on the slackwater leave daily at 8 A. M. and 5 P. M. These boats are sidewheelers and were built expressly for the trade, and are in charge of careful and attentive officers. For further information call on the Captain, A. S. Carlile, on the wharfboat.

THE light draught packet Petroleum, Capt McGlaughlin, has entered the Pittsburgh and Parkersburg trade. She leaves this day on her first trip. Hereafter she will leave on Wednesday and Satuday. For further information call on Capt. Charles Fairman, on the wharfboat.

ST. LOUIS, October 8.—The Phil. Sheridan cracked one of her cylinders on her last trip down from Keokuk, and lies up to get a new one. Business is improving. The receipts of produce from the upper streams to-day amount to over 3,000 tons. There is no change yet in rates to points South.

ST. LOUIS.—The Globe says: Boats have all the freight they can handle, and are coming in crowded with passengers. There is a great deal of trouble, however, in discharging. The laborers exact forty cents an hour, and few can be had at that rate, which has caused several boats to lie over.

MESSRS. DANIEL and Sam. Clements, engineers of the snagboat Thayer, are in Cincinnati. They report the machinery of the Thayer all out and in good order. It will, we learn, be placed in a new iron snagboat, bids for the construction of which are now being received at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, October 8.—The Gasconade was sold yesterday by Joseph Fecto and Amadie Petring, each one-half to Ben. Bradford, two-thirds, and Christian Hiller, one-third, for $2,500. Futzer has been engaged as engineer, and she loads for New Orleans. She will run in small Southern bayous.

AT St. Louis, Louis A. Welton filed a suit, on Saturday, in the United States District Court, against the steamboat J. H. Johnson, for $1,900, money advanced at New Orleans to purchase necessary supplies for the boat. The Grand Tower Coal Company also sues for a coal bill, and the boat has been tied up at the suit of several of her crew.

CAPTAIN JOHN GOOD, of Moline, Ill., formerly of Cincinnati, and father to Captain James Good of the barge line, is in St. Louis attending the fair. Captain Good first started on the river in 1830 in the capacity of carpenter. In 1839 he built the Volante; 1841 the Republic, one of the first double engine boats. In 1843 the famous racer Cincinnati, the machinery of which went into the towboat James Guthrie, the first boat to tow coal. Thence into the Bostona and last into the Ben. Stickney. The cylinders were 26 inch, diameter. In 1844 the James Madison; in 1845 the M. B. Homer; in 1844 the Pontiac, the machinery of which is now in the towboat Dictator; in 1856 the Marsaid; in 1866 the Universe. He afterwards bought a large number of boats, most of which Captain John W. Mason commanded before entering the Keokuk company. The last boat Captain Good owned is now the P. W. Strader in 1866. He also built in 1846 the first barge ever used by a steamboat as a lighter and named it Santa Fe.

River Survey—Steamers Sold.

From the Columbus (Georgia) Sun of a late date: "The survey of our river from this point to Eufaula was completed last spring. We learn from the Times that Mr. Walter Griswold, United States engineer, has arrived in Eufaula with his family, to make it his headquarters, while completing a survey of the Chattahoochee river from that point to Apalachicola. Mr. G. says that as soon as his barge and assistants arrive from the bay the work will be pushed forward rapidly. Ellis and Harrison sold at auction yesterday, for the sheriff, three boats belonging to the Jacksonville and Pensacola Railroad. They were disposed of under attachments in which the Florida Construction Company and the Atlantic and Gulf railroad are plaintiffs. The boats were sold as they are at the wharf. The New Jackson was sold to Major R. J. Moses for $4,100; the Barnett to Mr. Ryley Brown, acting for the Central line of boats, for $675; the Shamrock to Mr. Riley Brown, for the Columbus Iron Works, for $861. The Shamrock was built at Columbus in 1864; the Barnett at Pittsburgh in 1866; the Jackson at Columbus in 1867. We understand the original cost was in the neighborhood of $50,000. A gentleman we are acquainted with the transaction tells us that the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad paid Mr. A. Barnett, the then owner, £18,000, or about $90,000 cash for these boats.

Log of the United States Snagboat J. J. Abert for the Week Ending October 5, 1872.

To Colonel W. E. Merrill Cincinnati:

September 29 (Sunday)—Laid by at wreck of the Black Hawk.

September 30—Exploded seven 12½ pound torpedoes under the wreck, which tore out inside bulkheads; we then removed two gun-carriage axles, with about 100 pounds of brass, also a portion of the doctor engine. River stationary.

October 1.—Exploded three torpedoes, and pulled out some large pieces of timber and some hog-chains. In the afternoon sounded all over the wreck, and found 10 feet of water on the shoalest place. The bottom is covered with small pieces of the wreck, which will probably float away as soon as there is any current in the river.

October 2.—The friction battery which we have been using (Captain Dugan's) was sent for to-day, and was returned; our own battery has not yet arrived. Dragged over the Black Hawk with large chain nearly all day, pulling off several large pieces. On sounding again we found 10 feet strong over every part; there is 15 feet over the most of it. The wreck still makes a break, but we left it for the present, and started up the river with our grapple and drag chain. Dragged over the wreck of a coal boat at the mouth of Cache, partially removing it. Laid up at Mound City.

October 3.—Resumed dragging wrecks of barges at mouth of Cache. Several wrecks were here together, and from the timber removed we concluded that there were three of them. We left no visible break at this place. Went to Cairo for coal, and laid up there for the night.

October 4.—Ran up to the Black Hawk and dragged over it with our grapple for a few hours, but without apparent success. Afterward dragged over and entirely removed the wrecks of two flatboats near the Black Hawk. Ran up to Mound City and dragged over sunken rock boat above the navy yard, but without success. Removed two snags here, and laid up at Mound City.

October 5.—Dragged rock boat again, and took from it a large anchor and over 100 feet of chain, but without further success. Dragged a drift pile formed above the rock boat, removing one snag therefrom. Laid up at Mound City.

THE VERY LATEST.

WILLIAM H. SEWARD DEAD.

His Illness and Last Hours.

AUBURN, N. Y., October 10.—William H. Seward died at his residence in Auburn at 3:15 this afternoon. The announcement created a profound sensation here. It was entirely unexpected, and has produced wide-spread regret.

Mr. Seward having taken cold, and been somewhat unwell for a day or two, was, on the evening of Saturday, the 5th, seized with a severe chill, and his physician was summoned to him. He had been during the summer in his ordinary good health, suffering only from inconvenience of muscular palsy of his arms, and had been engaged in preparing for the press his account of his recent journey around the world. The chill was that of ordinary tertian ague, accompanied by a harrassing catarrh cough. It was followed by a fever and delirium which lasted till late in the night. On Sunday he was up in the afternoon, took his dinner, and passed a comfortable night. On Monday, with the exception of his cough and catarrh, he was comfortable, and dictated as usual to his assistants in completing his book. He played whist Monday evening, but at 10 P. M. a slight chill occurred, followed by delirium and fever, with aggravated catarrhal disturbance of the chest, which lasted nearly all night, his physician seeing him on this account after midnight. Tuesday morning, after some sleep, he was again better and drove out in the afternoon, but fever delirium and restlessness returned, with cough, Tuesday night. On Wednesday he drove out for two hours and dictated to his emanuensis as usual, though harrassed all day with a cough and catarrhal effusion in the chest. On Wednesday evening his cough abated for a while, and then the cough returned at bed time. He was nearly sleepless until four o'clock in the morning. At four A. M., to relieve the tedium of lying sleepless, he had his son William read the New York Times to him of Wednesday morning. He slept after five A. M. pretty well till eleven A. M. of to-day, though his fever kept up without any real remission. At half past one he was seized with great difficulty of breathing, caused by sudden catarrahal effusion into the lungs, commencing with the right lung and soon involving the left also, which occasioned his death in about two hours. He entertained no apprehension but that he should recover from the attack of catarrahal ague till last night and this morning, while at his age, and with the condition of muscular palsy from which he has suffered so long, the fact that the fever was increasing upon him, together with catarrhal disturbances, led his physicians to apprehend a fatal result in the course of a week or more. Yet no immediate fear was felt and his dissolution was sudden and unexpected.

Mr. Seward's intellectual faculties were clear and vigorous to the last, save when disturbed by paroxysms of fever. Just after effusion from the lungs to-day, and thinking it would relieve his breathing, he was, at his own desire, placed upon a lounge and bolstered up, and moved from his adjoining bed-room into his study, where, in the midst of his books and his library and other papers, and surrounded by his relatives and a few friends and all his devoted dependents, he breathed his last. For the last hour of his life, as the powers of nature were giving way, his condition became easy and he spent the time in affectionate leave takings of his relatives and dependents, and finally sank quietly to his last rest as if going to sleep.

YESTERDAY morning A. J. Jackson appeared before Mayor Blackmore and charged Patrick Ligh, Wm. Madison and a boy named Noonan with entering his house and stealing a quantity of clothing. The theft was committed on Wednesday afternoon. Some children saw the thieves coming out, and gave the alarm. Officer Thomas Moorhead, who was near, gave chase, and after a long run captured one of the fugitives who, we hear, had on a stolen coat. The others were arrested in the neighborhood, and all three have been held for hearings.

SUNDRY charges of robbery are already pending against James Cox, Thomas Garvey, William Henry, Patrick Lighand and John Kelly. Yesterday morning Mr. L. H. He alleges that on the night of September 27th the accused entered his house and stole a set of jewelry worth $70, a gold watch chain worth $60, a gold necklace worth $20, a gent's gold chain worth $50, silver coin to the amount of $10, a silver watch worth $30, and other articles worth $50. Mr. Falkenhazen made information against the two men for highway robbery, and they will have a hearing to-morrow morning.

A TERRIBLE accident occurred in St. Clair borough on Wednesday afternoon, by which four boys were seriously injured. Two were sons of Mr. Lewis Keib and two sons of Mr. Davidson. The lads had secured a package of four pounds of powder, and were firing it off in small blasts on the hillside in St. Clair borough. They had prepared a blast, and had laid a train of powder some four feet in length. Just as they applied the match to the train, a puff of wind carried the flames to the package, and an instantaneous explosion of the whole quantity followed. The Keib boys were nearest to the powder, and were so severely burned about the face and eyes that their sight, it is feared, is totally destroyed. The Davidson boys were badly burned about the hands and face, but their eyes escaped with but slight injury. The Keib boys were carried to their homes in St. Clair borough, where Dr. Riggs was summoned to attend them. He states that both boys will be totally blind. The other boys are doing as well as could be expected.

THE DISTRICT DELEGATES

To the Constitutional Convention.

The law "to provide for calling a convention to amend the constitution," contains a provision that in the county of Allegheny, which is entitled to nine district delegates, "no voter shall vote for more than six candidates, and the nine highest in vote shall be elected." This was for the purpose of giving the minority a representation. The Republican party nominated but six candidates, and of course these have all been elected. The Democrats and Liberals nominated six, and the three highest on the ticket will be chosen. Malcom Hay, Esq., leads so considerably that his election is conceded. The contest for the other two delegates is very close between Messrs. J. B. Guthrie, James Irvin and T. H. B. Patterson. In sixty-five districts in the county the vote stands as follows:

Irvin	7,529
Guthrie	7,503
Patterson	7,463

The other candidates, L. B. Duff and C. F. Bauer, are said to be so far behind as not to have a chance as against either Irvin, Guthrie or Patterson. The figures from the remaining districts will be required to decide the matter.

STYLES IN FURS.

What Will be Worn the Coming Season—Where the Styles Can be Obtained—Immense Stock at Wm. Fleming & Co.'s, No. 139 Wood Street—Unparalleled Inducements to Buyers—Rigid Enforcement of the One Price System.

The near approach of winter, as indicated in the falling leaves and in the marked change in the atmosphere, suggests to the ladies the propriety of preparing to don their furs. Of course the first question to be considered by them is, what are to be the prevailing styles? It has already been answered that black martin and seal are to be the leading styles for the coming season. The next thing to be satisfactorily settled is the place to buy, and this we propose to point out to our readers as briefly as possible. Wm. Fleming & Co., No. 139 Wood street, have received a full assortment of the latest styles of black martin saques, seal saques and ladies' seal caps. The stock of this house was purchased for cash sometime since, whereby the firm are enabled to offer inducements and bargains that cannot be approached by any other house in the city. It includes everything in the line, and the goods are of the most superior quality and have been selected with the greatest care. The firm designated sell all goods strictly on the one price principle. The goods are marked down to the lowest figures, from which no deviation is ever made. The advantages accruing to buyers from the enforcement of this system are obvious, and it may be safely said that it is the only true principle on which to conduct business, and any house adopting it must succeed. This firm are the only dealers in furs in this city pursuing this system—a fact worthy of being remembered by the ladies. We advise our lady readers by all means to call and and inspect the goods and note the prices at No. 139 Wood street, before purchasing their furs. We assure them they will not regret the visit.

Boro of Verona.

As will be seen by an advertisement in another column, the second sale of lots of the Morley property in the boro of Verona, will take place on the premises October 15th, 1872. There can be no better location for investment in suburban property than this flourishing village. The extensive round house and car shops of the Allegheny Valley road are in process of erection at this point. The town will soon be supplied with gas. Churches are numerous, and the educational advantages afforded are equal to those of the city. Verona is connected with the city by a double track railway running frequent and regular accommodation trains. Parties desirous of attending the sale should be at the Union depot at 9.30 on the day of sale, and take the excursion train for Verona.

ROBERTS' REMOVAL.

Opening of a Magnificent Jewelery Establishment—A Fine Storeroom and a Complete Stock.

The imposing building at the corner of Fifth avenue and Market street, which is known as the Morganstern block, is rapidly nearing completion. One of the store-rooms—No. 16 Fifth avenue—is quite finished and ready for occupancy. This stand was occupied for twenty-five years by J. M. Roberts and E. P. Roberts, his successor, as a jewelry store. Mr. Roberts, the present proprietor, who had temporarily removed a few doors above during the rebuilding, has returned and is ready for his grand opening to-day. The storeroom is fitted up in the most elaborate style in oiled walnut with thirty-six feet of silver mounted show cases, and its internal appearance will bear favorable comparison with, if it does not altogether eclipse, that of any similar establishment in the city. The French plate glass windows are of the largest size, thus admitting plenty of light and affording fine facilities for the display of goods. Of the stock of goods that will be exhibited at this establishment it may truthfully be said that it is the choicest and most elaborate ever brought to this city. We give below a partial enumeration of the articles comprising it, but this only includes a few of the many great attractions presented. Among other desirable goods will be found ladies' and gent's gold watches, in key and stem winders; royal, opera, guard and gold vest chains; stone, cameo, pink, coral and rich gold jewelry; chain and hand bracelets; necklaces and medallions; nickel silver plated and sterling silver ware; newly imported verd antique bronzes, &c., &c. Patrons of the house and our readers generally are invited to be present at the opening to-day for the purpose of inspecting the goods and ascertaining the nature of the inducements offered to purchasers.

The Million.

Housekeepers who may be about to invest in a cook stove should first call and examine the new one called the Million, manufactured and for sale by John B. Herron & Co., No. 291 Liberty street. The firm designated knowing the great want of housekeepers of limited means—a cook stove at a reasonable price—introduced the Million for the express purpose of supplying that great demand. But while this stove is sold considerably lower than other good stoves, it is so constructed as fully to meet the requirements of the housekeepers. It is well made, finely finished, durable, a good baker, etc. Call and see it and ascertain the price at which it is sold.

The grand and most important part of the Samaritan's Gift is its certainty of cure in the short time of from two to four days, besides being pleasant to take, having no smell or unpleasant taste and can be used without the knowedge of the most intimate acquaintance. THE STOW Foundation Pavement, Mechanics' Institute Premium, 1871.

Report of the Committee on Pavements, at the last Exhibition of the Mechanics' Institute, San Francisco, California, where the Stow Foundation Pavement was first introduced, and where it has been in used the past seven years.

"For general practical use and public benefit, we do not hesitate to pronounce the Stow Foundation Pavement, exhibited by the City Paving Company, together with the actual tests of its durability, as presented by the wear and tear in the streets of San Francisco, to be SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS, when taking into consideration the method of laying it, the time it has been laid, the form of its construction, and by an honest comparison with others which have been submitted to the same test. WE AWARD IT THE FIRST PREMIUM."

Signed, EDWIN A. SHERMAN, JOHN V. HUNTER, } Committee.

Stow Foundation Pavement!

The only Pavement that can be taken up and relaid without injury to the foundation. All Engineers, Builders, Gas and Water Companies and Plumbers, indorse this Pavement.

THE GREAT MERIT OF THE STOW PAVEMENT IS IN ITS SUPERIOR FOUNDATION,

Over all others, either of Wood or Stone, now in use.

It is a well known principle, in fact an AXIOM in Engineering, that where sand can be confined it is the best foundation that can be obtained. This principle—the confinement of sand—is perfectly and thoroughly secured in this pavement by the Wedges which are driven between and below the blocks into the sand, [see cut.] thus securely confining it and rendering lateral displacement, or compression by vertical pressure, totally impossible.

It is also incontrovertible, that where wood is kept uniformly wet, it will not decay. This pavement being laid directly on a sub-stratum of sand, and the surface made air and water-tight, the blocks receive and retain the moisture from beneath by capillary attraction and are uniformly wet, even in the dryest weather; thus decay or dry rot cannot take place.

It is, when finished, a perfectly sectional pavement, each block sustaining the weight required, independent of the other.

It is so constructed that the different pieces do not become loose by use; but the longer the pavement is used the more substantial it becomes

The gravel does not become loose, as in other pavements but will remain firm as long as the pavement will last.

A portion can be taken up and replaced without injury to the pavement. In taking it up for laying water or gas pipes, or for constructing sewers, there is no necessity of removing any more than what is required for the pipe or sewer, which can be replaced in as firm and substantial manner as the original pavement, at one-fourth the expense of any other wood pavement.

In San Francisco, where the pavement has been in use more than six years, at least nineteen-twentieths of all pavements put down in that city for the past four years have been of the "Stow Foundation," the property owners selecting it in preference to any other pavement. Address,
